Letters To The Editor

Roscommon, Michigan
The Crawford Avalanche
Grayling, Michigan

Dear Mr. Strong:
Thank you for your kind and detailed answer to my postcard commenting on the Roscommon-Grayling tournament game.

I had meant the card mostly as a personal note in reference to your write up of the game, and after your reply considered the matter closed.

However, the card did get into print and seemed to be misunderstood. As a result, I have received a number of postcards, letters, and phone calls, and hear wild rumors. In as much as some of these asked questions and were unsigned, mine was signed, I decided to write an answer and explanation for publication.

The "Avalanche" stated that if either team had the advantage it was the Vikings, because they would be on their HOME floor. It is also a generally admitted fact that a team that has played with glass backboards all season, has about a 10 point advantage over a team that has not. This is all my card meant to imply. I believe that on a neutral floor, without this type backboards the Bucks could defeat the Vikings.

Nowhere did I say that the Vikings were not a good team, and I cannot understand why all the fuss. The Vikings are a good team! I said it would be interesting to see how far they would go away from home, and so it was. The further the Vikings went, the more proud the Bucks could be for having been beaten by a good team. In fact, there was a large delegation of Viking rooters from Roscommon at Lansing. Here is a copy of a telegram sent to be delivered before the game.

"We the students and faculty of Gerrish-Higgins High wish you the best of luck in the state tournament - go Grayling!"

It was signed by 334 students and faculty members. Card, "How much money did you lose?" I want to say that I do not believe in games. Therefore, I did not lose so much as a cup of coffee. My only interest is in giving the boys an equal chance. You see, after a defeat it is the team alone that has to take all the blame, the comments run something like, "well our boys lost." It's they who have to hang their heads and offer no alibis. All teams should have an equal chance, be they Roscommon, Grayling, or Middleville. You saw in your letter that the people of Roscommon (that is some of them) must take part of the blame, because you can't go out and bet a lot of money and tell them about it, and say win or else. That, I heard nothing about. I did hear some say they could not get any bets in Grayling. If there were a lot of bets, people from both towns were equally guilty.

Sure the Bucks were tense and nervous, but why? They had two strikes against them before they started. If they could have gained a lead, much of the tenseness might have eased. You said, "that in your reply to my letter, 'As for glass backboard and home floor, Roscommon and Mancelena both had a better shooting average than Grayling. Don't you think they could have done even better on their home floors?'"

I still maintain that tournament games on home floors are not fair competitions, and to throw in glass backboards, even worse. I have nothing against glass backboards as such, they are fine, but tournament games will not be fair until ALL schools have them. This, of course, is not Grayling's fault. Even if Roscommon gets them, they will then have a greater home game advantage in conference play.

I am sorry if I have offended anyone, but the Bucks have been the victims of the same thing for the second year. I don't believe anyone can blame me for fighting for our team and equality for all.

Anyway, I think my card did some good in behalf of the Vikings. It stirred up additional backing for them. For either the Grayling people did not have much faith in them or did not realize they were as good as they were, because at the first tournament game there were more fans from out of town than there were from a few blocks away.

Sincerely,
Frank J. Chervin

I note with interest a letter you published in your last week's issue commenting on the Vikings of Grayling High-school in their current match with the Vikings of the Class C State Basketball Championship. I saw the Mancelena game in Grayling's new gym (its new to me, the first time I have seen it) and possibly I am prejudiced against a game win of the 1956 of Grayling High School. I do not feel that it was the "home floor" or the glass backboards that contributed to Grayling's success. They weren't playing on their home floor the following three games when they took Gaylord, Charlevoix and Crystal Falls. And Lansing is far from the local court and they played the Class C championship game and lost only by 2 points. I think Grayling had a well balanced team and sharp basketball shooting and after all its the ball going through the basket the greater number of times that counts. I heard nothing about the material out of which the backboards are made has very little to do with the final results. I think too Roscommon had a well balanced ball team this year but somewhat inexperienced. I had a long talk with Dave Daugherty, one of their top athletic performers of past years and he claims the boys had a well balanced team. Living in an area where there are several basketball games each week (two high schools and a college in this town), we get a chance to see a lot of basketball and have watched numerous Class C contests this year and it is my opinion that Grayling's Viking basketball team could have taken any of them. Yes, I would even go so far to say they were spectacular.

Yours sincerely,

County Superintendent Attends CMC Meeting

Mt. Pleasant - Mr. John A. B. MacAuley, County Superintendent of Crawford County, attended the annual meeting of county superintendents sponsored by Central Michigan College's Field Service March 26 and 27.

Dr. J. D. Marcus, Field Service director, reports that the office staff of Field Service, the Field Service College Committee, and various members of the college administration participated in the meeting.

The meeting provided an opportunity for Field Services and the county superintendents to evaluate the Central Michigan College off-campus program, and to discuss plans for future off-campus activities.

As Dr. Marcus has previously stated, it is only through the cooperation and work of local school authorities, such as the County Superintendents that Central Michigan College can make its off-campus program as successful as it is.

Local Residents Paying Bigger U. S. Taxes

(Special to the Avalanche)

New York, Mar. 25 - Crawford County residents will have a bigger individual income tax bill to pay this year.

Not that there has been any changes in the tax rate. It is just that whatever gains in income people achieve become translated immediately into an increase in tax liability.

How much are local residents contributing at present? The latest annual returns, made last March, show an estimated yield of $87,000 from the county.

The figure, although unofficial, is based on a breakdown taken into account the Government's report on returns from the State of Michigan, together with earnings and income groupings in the county.

Local residents contributed 0.03 percent of the total amount collected from the State in personal taxes.

With economic gains recorded in most areas in the past year, the Administration feels that the goal set for the nation's $35.5 billion in personal income returns, will be met through the tax payments due on April 15, this year.

In Crawford County, where preliminary figures indicate an income gain of 7.0 percent during the past year, personal tax payments are expected to rise to $733,000.

The Government is counting on more prosperity and further economic growth during the present year to produce still higher revenue in 1958. The new budget contemplates a personal income rise from the current $325 billion level to $340 billion.

If residents of Crawford County realize an increase equal to that average, about 6 percent, they will have proportionately larger income taxes to pay, come April 15, 1958.

The President's huge budget, which has provoked strong comment in all parts of the country, for the collection of a $38 billion from business corporations, from individuals and other sources. It also prompts spending some $43 billion in national defense.

The present mood of the country is to try to cut it down to a billion dollars. The Government is offering to contribute $43 billion in local projects that require local funds.

mpion Vikings...

the Grayling Vikings did not bring home championship trophy from Lansing, they did in respect of all who witnessed their game at the Civic Center. Talking to folks from other hallways and lobbies of the huge center game with the State Champions, Lake and only praise for our Vikings. Their p, their fight, their ability and appearance or commendation.

1934-35 basketball squad brought more honing than any other team that ever played High School Athletic Association's statements.

in to wonder how all this started. For a art that we felt we played in this team; we about 8 or 9 years when our family lived tent over the Avalanche office. A basket- is purchased and hung on the rear of the Both daughter, son and father spent many backyard firing away at the basket. When o the lake to a new home, the first outside s a backboard and a basket where more k place. ionship basketball takes hours and hours of over many years. It takes the patience and of men like Bruce Smith and Art Thayer ork with the young men and boys. It takes anding and interest of parents to talk with o encourage them and to help them.

the big things that made this team rise rs, we feel, was the new Grayling gymnas- gave the boys the spark of pride in their community. The voters and taxpayers of the School District therefore may all feel they in this success.

HOMEWORK

It is from this that sports champions are made.

How well, my wife and I remember, the clanging racket of a small rubber ball slamming into a metal wastebasket in our son's room. The racket was terrific but outside the snow was whirling and blowing and the temperature hovered near zero. We overlooked the discordant annoyance because the "old shooting eye" was being sharpened up. And it paid off over the past couple years too.

We know Grayling is proud of its team this year but with more understanding on the part of parents of those 9, 10 and 11 year-olds, we know, that Grayling will have a team in the very near future that will be even greater. — R. W. S.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

23 Years Ago — April 5, 1934

It was a tight race for the office of supervisor of Grayling Township between Fred Niederer, Republican, and Frank Sales, Democrat, the former winning by a vote of 249 to 234. Sen. Smith, Clerk and Amos Hunter for treasurer, had good majorities over their Republican opponents, Chris Olsen and Chris Jensen.

Alfred Hummel was elected supervisor over Ed Feldhauser in Maple Forest Township. The former was a ship candidate. The Citizen's ticket in Frederic upset the apple cart of the Peoples ticket. Every candidate on the Citizens ticket was elected, defeating Supervisor Dunckley and other incumbents in the township offices. Supervisor-elect is George Horton, former township treasurer.

Supervisor Caid of Lovells had no opposition and will continue to serve his township.

Sydney Dyer was reelected supervisor of South Branch township.

Supervisor Frank Love of Beaver Creek won by a large majority.

home. Miss Lillian Swanson spent the weekend in the city. She accompanied Stewart Rutledge, of Roscommon, and they visited the latter's grandparents.

The sixth fire of the week occurred last Wednesday afternoon when the McClain fish factory was consumed by flames with loss of entire building and contents. Lionel had a narrow escape himself. In relating his rendezvous with death, "Tuffy" said he was returning from one of his numerous cross country jaunts from the Manistee river and decided to call up for a rest. After affixing a shiner on his hook and letting him dally around in the shanty hole, L. B. rolled a cigarette and carefully made up his bunk for some serious fishing. His awakening came with the roar of fire and crackling flames licking at his person. With great presence of mind Lionel jumped off the bunk and ran into the wall, fell in the fish hole and finally made the door. Water was put on the fire but it no avail. Everything was destroyed except the hole in the ice, which was saved by the tugboat. McClain has the sympathy of the community and hopes that his plans for rebuilding will be rushed forward and that he will again be on the ice next winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tatro of Luzerne had Easter dinner with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ziebell spent Easter with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Catlin, in Toledo.

The Fred Welsh home is under quarantine with scarlet fever. Tom is the victim.

Lucy Morency and son Leo and wife of Detroit visited relatives here over Easter.

Mrs. Roy Milnes, Mrs. Harold Jarmen, Mrs. Herbert Gothro, and Mrs. C. G. Clippert were in West Branch Monday where they sang before the Womens Club of that city. Another very delightful feature of the program was a talk by Mrs. Haddock of Bay City, president of the Northeastern District of Clubs of Michigan on Modern Poetry. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Burt Parliament.

Lawrence Pillsbury and his sister, Miss Maude of Lansing, were guests at the Maurice Gorman home over Easter. They came for the purpose of accompanying their brother, Ed Cooper, who is ill, to University Hospital, Ann Arbor. Mr. Gorman also accompanied them. This was Lawrence's first visit since 1908.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Creque, Jr., and children Carrie Marie and Bobby, of Flint, and Mrs. Roy Newton of Clifford, were Easter guests of the ladies' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rasmusson. It was the occasion of the birthdays of their parents, Mr. Rasmusson being 74 and Mrs. Rasmusson 73. Sunday afternoon many friends called to wish them happy returns of the day. Mr. Rasmusson was the recipient of some lovely flowers for which she is very grateful. Claude Cardinal has rented the lunch room of the Moshier garage on US-27 and opened up a recreation parlor. He also serves lunches.

Virgil Justice of Roscommon has been appointed fire warden for Crawford County, and with his family expects to move to Grayling soon. This position was formerly held by Charles Glerke.

46 Years Ago — April 6, 1911

Mr. and Mrs. George Sorenson are the happy parents of a ninth pound boy since the fourth instar and Grandpa Peter E. Johnson wears a smile that will never wear off.

E. Douglas and Co. are going to install another shingle machine in the mill at Lovells, to handle increasing business.

Frederic flashes — Mrs. T. Calahan is afflicted with tonsillitis. John Armstrong has the mumps. Mrs. George Colten is on the sick list.

The population of our town has increased wonderfully lately as forty-one registered here. Where did they all come from?

Ace Lang is home from Ann Arbor much improved.

The People's ticket was elected beautifully by a majority. Tuesday, March 28th, was Hospital Day in Grayling. The honor and glory of the story belongs to the ladies of Grayling, who worked so hard and faithfully. Mrs. George Alexander as general chairman of the day, had her forces well marshalled. The reception committee attended to the two thousand and more persons and showed them through the building and explained all to the satisfaction of the guests and citizens. The patients' committee, headed by Mrs. C. J. T. served.

ing the vast multitude of persons. The Grayling Nurses, young ladies of the village, certainly "tagged" everyone in sight. They under the command of their hustling chairman, Mrs. M. Hanson, helped to make hospital day a great success in a financial and advertising way. The donation committee under the able leaders Mrs. S. N. Insley and Mrs. Robert Roblin, were always on hand to thankfully accept the many and various donations for the hospital. Last but not least, great credit for the success of the day is due to the hustling soliciting committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Amidon and Mrs. R. W. Brink. The unanimous opinion of everyone is that the hospital is a modern and up-to-date institution, one which compares with any of its size in the state, and one which every citizen in Grayling may well be proud of.

Grayling G.O.C. Sights "Object"

An unidentified object was sighted by a Ground Observer at Grayling, the 27th of March. The Observer reported the incident to the Grand Rapids Filter Center. Filter Center Volunteers said they had received several reports on the object, but had received no identification information. Mrs. Fenton said the object remained in the area for quite some time.

County Homemakers To Study Cleaning Rugs And Upholstery

Leaders of Crawford County home economics extension groups will meet Friday, April 26, at the Grayling Township Hall, in Grayling, to study methods of cleaning rugs, upholstered furniture, window shades, lampshades and other household materials. The meeting will begin at 10:00 a. m. Miss Cora K. Morris, extension specialist in home management, Michigan State University, East Lansing, will present the lesson.

The leaders will study how to eliminate the much dreaded semi-annual general house cleaning of their grandmother's day, by daily, weekly and seasonal cleaning of household materials. The house of today can be bright and clean at all times with a minimum of work.

was given a surprise birthday party Sunday at St. Mary's Hall, which some 30 members of the Senior class of Grayling High at-tiny straw sombreros in many colors. Two birthday cakes, one depicting skiers on a slope, and another a basketball, with the Green and white tapered flanked the cakes. Dancing to the music of a juke box furnished a fine afternoon's entertainment following the simple dinner. Bill was given a Samsonite suitcase as a present from his classmates.

JUNIORS PRESENT
THREE-ACT
MYSTERY PLAY

Perhaps they didn't know when they were well off, or maybe they were just gluttons for punishment, but Hercules Nelson's uncle and aunt had long wanted him to come spend a weekend with them in company with his bosom pal, Wilbur Maxwell. So the boys set out for a big weekend. This is the situation at the opening of the play, "Finders Creepers," presented by the Junior class last Friday night at the High School gym. The plot develops when Hercules discovers his uncle is a mortician. He's for going home, especially when he finds there's another "guest" in the house, Jason Quigley, who "ran out of gas," his funeral is to be Monday. Then Wilbur spots Celeste, Hercules' cousin, and decides to stay. Mr. Quigley, the guest, walks around in a most un-becomingly delicate fashion. Mr. Quigley isn't really dead. Someone tried to do away with him, and the boys, after setting out to solve the case, getting everyone out of the house who might help them, and then coming face to face with the culprit, finally escape with their necks, but not before one of the wildest finishes ever.

The presentation was chock-full of comedy, and much credit goes to Mrs. Robert Klein, who directed the following cast in their parts:
Wilbur Maxwell, played by Ronnie Kellogg; Hercules Nelson, (Wilbur's bosom pal), Paul Johnson; Celeste (Hercules' cousin),
Dianna Bassett; Nina Quigley
(the bright spot in Hercules' life), Vivian Fenton; Frankie (Celeste's little sister), Judy Kenyon; Aunt Mary (Hercules' aunt), Glada Jensen; Uncle Bob (the operator of the establishment), Russell Ballinger; Granny (Uncle Bob's grandmother), Sue Bidvia; Mr.
Quigley (the philanthropist), Larry Andrews.
Dr. Brown (Mr. Quigley's physician), Judy Larson; Madeline
(Mr. Quigley's sister-in-law), Harry Schuster (the lawyer and friend of Madeline); Jim Perkins (the undertaker); Jason Quigley (the guest); Claude (Hercules' caretaker).

Richard Moore; Henry (the helper), Clare Madsen; State and property managers were Richard Moore, John Matthews, John Stamphy, Wayne Ingalls and Tom Edwards. Prompters, Christine Canfield, Connie Davis and Georgia Lucksted.

HAVOLINE

The Motor Oil that OUT-PERFORMS them all!

★ If you haven't driven into a Texaco Dealer service station lately, do it the next time you need an oil change, and put in Advanced Custom-Made Havoline. In rigid road tests against other leading motor oils—under both warm and cold weather conditions—Havoline's performance proved far superior. Havoline-lubricated engines delivered more power, faster pickup, better gasoline mileage; and when the motors were inspected, showed practically no wear or rust. Independent tests prove that Havoline is the best motor oil your money can buy, regardless of price.

And the home folks that will serve you—Texaco Dealers—are listed below.

Dr. Paul Dosch Addresses Class

The Occupations class of Grayling High School was very fortunate to have as their guest, Friday, March 28, Dr. Paul Dosch who gave a talk on the medical profession which was followed by questions from the students. Dr. Dosch outlined the requirements, advantages and disadvantages, and brought out other points relative to the medical profession and a career. His talk was enjoyed by the members of the class.

On Wednesday, March 27, the Occupations class visited the State Police Post at Caydon, upon arriving at the post the class was divided into two groups. One was taken to the post commandant's office, Sergeant Anderson, where they were instructed on details of traffic accident reporting and a general talk on accidents. The other group was taken on a tour of the post where they inspected a police car, received instructions on artificial respiration and the technique of fingerprinting. After the two groups were finished they exchanged places so that each group received the same information.

After the police post tour the class visited radio station WTAC where they were shown the studios, inspected the equipment and heard a program then in progress. This field trip helped to show types of occupations, their duties and requirements, which some of the students are interested in.
